Once a country is habituated to liars, it takes generations to bring the truth back.

President’s Message

Welcome to 2019! I’m not one to make New Year’s resolutions but the upcoming year does offer an opportunity to reset our focus. The chaos in Washington has become a 24-hour news cycle that never lets up. So, instead of dwelling on that we could look for ways to alleviate the ills that touch us where we live. For instance, local efforts responding to climate change are worthy of our attention and assistance. Inequality of access to education and other opportunities may be a global problem but the solution must happen at the micro not the macro level. Sustainability has become a buzzword but it is a valuable goal in many sectors of life today.

There is much to be grateful for as we move into the next year and this small community is a big part of why I look forward to my future in St. Pete. Here’s wishing you and your family a healthy and happy 2019.

If ever the time should come, when vain and aspiring men shall possess the highest seats in government, our country will stand in need of its experienced patriots to prevent its ruin.
